BIRTHS.

BAKER—At Prince Albert, Sask., on Sunday, January 10th, 1892, the wife of F. C. Baker, of a son.

RED DEER HILL.

Xmas and New Year's Day passed quietly; the only noteworthy occurrence being a Christmas tree at Willoughby church under the auspices of the Willoughby Sunday School. Quite a large number of the Hill people were in attendance, and were very highly pleased with the excellent manner in which everything was arranged and carried out. Mr. Robert Paul, Supt. of the Sunday School, filled the chair in his usual able style. Some of the performances deserve especial mention, while all were good. The dialogue given by J. H. McKay and others was certainly excellent. The music also, with Miss M. McKay as organist, was remarkably good and correspondingly appreciated. Having completed the programme, a young gentleman of Willoughby, acting in the role of Santa Claus, distributed over two hundred presents from the beautifully arranged tree. Some of the older ones did not seem to fall into ecstasies of delight at being publicly made the recipients of rubber dolls, pug dogs, elephants, etc.

Mr. Robt. Giles has been quite unwell for the past week and is not improving very much at last report. Neuralgia is the complaint.

Our election of school trustee took place on the 7th, and resulted in the election of John Glaister. A new school house is talked of.

John Paul has bought a carload of wheat in this vicinity, and we understand he will soon load a few more cars. His prices, although low are up to the usual standard.

We have been informed that Ronald Spence, son of Andrew Spence, and Miss Kate Brown, eldest daughter of James Brown, both of this place, were joined in marriage this week. We wish the young couple long life, prosperity and happiness.

The farmers here are doing nothing at present, but with the opening of spring will go on with farming more actively and extensively than ever. The increase of land under cultivation will be equal to about twenty per cent.

SCHOOL MEETING.

On Thursday morning last the annual meeting of School District No. 3 was held at the schoolhouse. In the absence of the chairman Mr. T. O. Davis occupied the chair. There was a very slim attendance of ratepayers present, from which we conclude that the people are satisfied with the manner in which the affairs of the school are conducted. Two of the trustees retiring this year, their term of office having expired, an election was held, when Messrs. J. MacArthur and T. O. Davis were re-elected without opposition. Some discussion took place as to the probability of the Government grant to schools being reduced, and the conclusion was come to that whether or not, the present efficient state of our schools would have to be kept up. It was also agreed that another assistant teacher was required at once, as the present staff of teachers were unable to do justice to the large number of pupils attending the school. The different reports were also read and approved of.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES.

The Trustees of Protestant Public School District No. 3, in submitting their annual report to the ratepayers of the district, desire to call their attention to the marked improvement which has been made in school accommodation. The central school has been enlarged so as to give fully double the room afforded by the old building. This enlargement was absolutely necessary on account of the increasing number of pupils seeking for education. It also enables the high school department to be conducted under the same roof, which the trustees considered to be a very important condition of success.

The heating of the school has been greatly improved by the introduction of two furnaces.
Early in the year Mr. J. Mustard resigned his position and ceased to teach at the commencement of the summer holidays. His place has been filled by Mr. Wm. Sanderson, B.A., under whose management it is hoped the high school department will be made a success.

A change was made after the holidays in the lady assistant, and the services of Miss Graham were secured for the primary class. The trustees believe that another teacher will soon be required for a junior class.

Under the management of the present staff of teachers, and with the improved accommodation which the new building affords, the trustees have no hesitation in expressing their confidence in the future prosperity of the school.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
(Sgd) JAMES MACARTHUR,
Chairman.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 13, 1892.

The Empire says:—The cable despatches report Sir Chas. Tupper as having told a deputation from Southampton that the McKinley tariff had struck a serious blow at the trade of Canada, and that it bore especially hard on the farmers of Canada. He went on to say, according to the report, that the hostile intention of the tariff had not been successful, and that it had opened up a market in Great Britain for Canadian products which formerly depended on the demand in the States. Whether Sir Charles used these exact words we have no means of knowing till the fuller newspaper reports of the meeting come by mail. Assuming that he did, we would not be surprised if some of the organs of the Opposition seized upon his words as contradictory of what Conservative leaders and journals in this country have been saying regarding the effects of the United States tariff upon the trade of this country. But, as a matter of fact, there is no divergence of opinion. No one pretends that the McKinley bill was not framed to exclude Canadian farm products from the United States market, and that it has not succeeded to a large extent in certain lines in accomplishing its purpose. There has been some inconvenience, no doubt; there has been derangement of trade; there has been loss even to those who formerly handled the business and made it profitable. But that the Cartwright view is correct of our having been badly struck by the act, and that in consequence we are bleeding to death from the wound is sheer moonshine. It is not borne out by the banking returns, by the commercial reports, the market prices, or any other barometer of the financial condition of things. The Toronto and Buffalo prices for barley are the sole remaining prop, and a remarkably rickety one at that. The point is that we are establishing other markets, at some pains and trouble doubtless, but markets that will in the end be more remunerative, for the simple reason that the demand is far greater than the United States need could ever be. The advantage of the McKinley Act has been to force us to look elsewhere and to show to the world that we are so far independent of the States that during the first twelve months following the imposition of their hostile tariff Canada's exports have enormously increased, the financial returns indicate healthy conditions, and the trade expansion is higher than at any previous period. This may be jingoism, but business men will say it is based on the hard facts of daily experience.

Mr. Laurier is putting off as long as possible the evil day when he has to stump Quebec for the displaced bootiers. But he will have to toe the mark soon.

Canada has the inside track on the question of fast steamships. Nature has given us the shortest route on both oceans. Let us cling, as the Reform organs say, to the short route to which we belong.

If the report be true that the hitch in the Behring sea negotiations is caused by the concern of the Imperial Government for the interests of the Canadian sealers, it will be another testimony to the strength and usefulness of British connection.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has given $50,000 for a public library at Fairfield, Iowa. No one doubts that Mr. Carnegie has plenty of money, but the ironworkers who serve him declare that they see precious little of it. The millionaire might be just as well as generous.

As the campaign progresses in Quebec the constitutional point becomes more and more obscure, and the services of Messrs. Mowatt, Mills, Peter Ryan, Preston and other constitutional authorities are less and less required. There is a painful silence in their ranks, and a fervent wish by the two first named that Mercier would go on a long voyage to Africa or some other warm climate.

M. Guy de Maupassant, the French novel writer and pupil of Elaubert, has attempted suicide. His act was due to the exhausted state of his nervous system. It is not at all astonishing that a man having studiously and laboriously cultivated the depraved mental condition characteristic of the school of literature which M. de Maupassant embraced should eventually reach that state of insanity with which he would clothe the world.

There appears to be a very prolonged and bitter difference of opinion between the Salvationists and the townspeople of Eastbourne, Eng. The Eastbournites throw stones, and hoot in vindication of their right to show how thoroughly they dislike the Army's practices. The Salvationists continue to beat the drums and march the streets to vindicate the liberty of free speech. They are both so busy at these respective operations that the virtues of charity and forbearance and the religion of the Saviour who taught them get no attention at all.

Present possibilities are that Mr. Hill, of New York, and Mr. Blaine, of Maine, will be the presidential candidates in the United States. When it comes to a struggle between two such accomplished politicians the world at large may expect an edifying exhibition in the time-honored election entertainment known as "tail twisting." Of course the fun never has, and never will, hurt the caudal appendage of the British lion, and during the coming year that good natured master of the situation will go on attending to his business in the Behring sea as if nothing unusual were occurring on the main land.

The British trade returns for December show an increase in the imports of $19,000,000, and a falling off in the exports of nearly $8,000,000, compared with the figures for December 1890. The increased imports, no doubt, are due largely to the large purchase of foodstuffs from America and elsewhere. The decline in exports has been a steady and unsatisfactory feature of the trade of 1891, because the loss has fallen on the artisans and manufacturers.

A monument is to be erected in the city of Guatemala to the five Sisters of Charity who sacrificed their lives during the recent epidemic of smallpox there in attending to the stricken. The community of Guatemala is largely Spanish and Roman Catholic, but the citizens of other lands who have had, perhaps, personal knowledge of the devotion of the members of this order will be glad to learn that their signal heroism during the Guatemala plague is soon to be immortalized in becoming marble.

It was thought that full returns would somewhat lessen Mr. Rosamond's reported majority in North Lanark; but they do not. The exact majority is now placed at 431.

CURLING.

The first match game of the season—President vs. Vice-President—was played on the Saskatchewan Curling Club's ice on Wednesday last. The game was hot and keenly contested from start to finish. Some excellent shots were made during the game, but a lack of practice was evident on the part of the majority of the players. The rink is lighted up at 7 o'clock every evening, the ice always in excellent order and all that is wanted is for the players to turn out and get the needed practice. The game resulted in a victory for the president's (Mr. Campbell) team, with a majority of seventeen. The following shows how the game stood at the close:—

| PRESIDENT. | VICE-PRESIDENT. |

THE DYING CREE TO HIS RIFLE

Hand down my rifle, Oh brother,
Lay it beside me here—
Aye, mother, wife and child thou'st been
To me for many a year:
To me thou art more than mortal;
With mine thy spirit shall roam,
As perils we've met together
So we'll face the great unknown.

Hast forgotten the day the Blackfoot chief
Strode forth in his savage might,
From the circle of painted warriors
And dared us to the fight?
A taunt woke the spirit within us,
And we dealt him blow for blow;
There on the flower-decked mead he died
Like a man, with his feet to the foe.

And hast thou forgotten Vermillion's banks,
That bright autumnal day,
The maddest bull charged down on us
As helpless, rattled we lay:
Right through his shaggy frontlet
Thy faithful missile sped,
And with a plunge and mighty roar
He fell beside us, dead.

And we killed the mountain grizzly,
Drove the tiger to his lair,
And brought the eagle fluttering down
From his eyrie high in air,
The moose and stately caribou
Bowed trembling at thy word,
At thy command the antelope
With life-blood dyed the sword.

And far within the barren land
We followed the muck-ox track,
Nor icy breath of a northern snow
Ever yet could drive us back.
We climbed the smoke-wreathed fire hills
Guarding Yukon's golden sands,
And looked down on the city of ice
Ne'er built with human hands.

But hark! what sound comes to me
And wakens my dying brain?
'Tis the chant of the desert warrior
Come ringing across the plain.
The song that rose triumphant
On the Red Sea's banks of old—
Battle hymn of a conquering race
Whose deeds are yet untold.

Our summons! We'll mount the phantom steed
The Spirit Great shall send,
Past mountain, forest, prairie
Our ghostly way we'll wind;
Through mystic groves of Douglas pine,
By waterfall's sullen roar,
Till we reach the brink of the waveless
Lake
That hath no other shore.

There the angel guide will meet us
In the great white stone canoe;
And we'll follow the track of the setting sun
Till earth is lost to view.
A bound and we reach the spirit land,
Far in the ambient air,
And quivering wings of northern light
Shall to earth the message bear.

DISCUSSING THE LICENSE LAW.

Regina, Jan. 7.—To-day's session of the Assembly was wholly occupied with discussions on the new liquor license bill. The House sat until eleven o'clock and proceeded as far as section 47 of the bill, there being altogether 142 sections. Very few important amendments were made except the striking out of the clause providing for restaurant licenses. There was a general expression of opinion against saloons, and it was feared that to give licenses to restaurants, whose only qualification might be, as Mr. Brett said, a frying-pan and a tin stove, would open a wide door for saloons of all kinds. Oliver, Dill and others argued against placing so much power connected with licenses in the hands of the executive, holding that this was shifting the responsibility that ought to belong to the Assembly itself. Haultain, Cayley and Brett protested against such an argument.

FRANCO-ENGLISH WAR.

London, Jan. 7.—The stock exchange to-day is wild with excitement owing to a very warlike rumor. The report as spread is to the effect that British war vessels at Tangiers have landed a force of blue jackets and marines at that place. It is added that the French admiral there has given the British admiral notice that France gives England twenty-four hours in which to re-embark her landing party and that if this is not done at the expiration of that time the French fleet will attack the British war ships. It is supposed this startling report is simply a canard, circulated by Bourse speculators, but the excitement prevailing shows how dangerous the situation in Morocco is believed to be. Enquiries at the admiralty and foreign office fail to obtain confirmation or denial of the news referred to, but the report has spread with marvellous rapidity and is now the crazy topic of London. The clubs and hotels, smoking and reading rooms are full of excited people eagerly discussing the situation and weighing the chances of war between France and England.

CONCESSION TO CANADA.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Soon after the reciprocity arrangements between the United States and Spain went into effect complaints were made by Canadian merchants that the authorities of Cuba and Porto Rica were refusing to allow Canadian products into these islands at the same rate of duty as imposed upon United States products of similar kinds, and also that they were imposing an export duty on sugars destined for Canada. The Minister of Finance made immediate representation to the colonial secretary in London, and very soon thereafter received assurances that Canadian products would receive in all respects the most favored nation treatment and that the Cuban and Porto Rican authorities had been so instructed. Official despatches just received bear out these assurances, so that up to July 1st 1892, Canadian trade stands in Cuba and Porto Rica on precisely the same basis as that of the United States.

INFLUENZA INCREASING.

London, Jan. 7.—A despatch from Vienna says that at Stammersdorf, a suburb of that city, fifteen deaths from influenza have occurred within two days. All schools in the vicinity are closed. At Dunkirk, France, influenza is epidemic, the mortality having increased 30 per cent. Roubaix and Tournai, in the department of the north, are also afflicted with the scourge. Influenza continues to spread most alarmingly in nearly all parts of England. About one third of the staff of the general post office is affected, and mails are greatly delayed. The result is that many large business and banking houses are unable to properly conduct their affairs and will not be able to get in proper running order for some time to come.

Copenhagen, Jan. 7.—There has been about 2,000 fresh cases of influenza here during the past week. Over 100 people have died from the disease mentioned.

EGYPT'S RULER DEAD.

London, Jan. 7.—A despatch from Cairo says the Khedive is dead. The attack of influenza from which he had been suffering, developed into congestion of the lungs, with cardiac affection. He died this afternoon.

Paris, Jan. 7.—The death of the Khedive of Egypt has created an ominous sensation throughout France, and particularly in this city. It is believed that France will take this opportunity of reopening the whole Egyptian question, and that she will insist upon the appointment of a regency with a French representation in such regency. England it is thought, will probably insist that Prince Abbas, the eldest son of the late Khedive is old enough to reign; or should England not take that course, it is inferred that she will advocate the appointment of a council or regency with Sir Evelyn Baring the British agent, Consul General and minister plenipotentiary in Egypt, as the presiding officer of such a body. It is generally admitted, even here, that at this stage of the Eastern question the influence of the late Sir William White, the last British ambassador to the Porte, had with the Sultan, would have been invaluable. In any case the situation in the Mediterranean, in Morocco and Egypt is a dangerous one and will need great care and fine diplomacy to avert a clash of arms.

Conflicting stories are in circulation here as to the cause of the Khedive's death. Apoplexy and not influenza, is the disease which is most referred to here as having struck down the ruler of Egypt.

DEAD AGAINST THEM.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Judge Rose charged the grand jury in the McGreevy-Connolly conspiracy case this morning. The court was crowded with lawyers and politicians and much interest was felt in the judge's remarks, which were both sweeping and severe. After referring to the formation of the firm Larkin Connolly & Co., and the agreement by which Robert McGreevy was given 30 per cent profits, His Lordship said that it appeared as if the idea had been conceived to secure by undue influence valuable contracts, which were about to be let at Quebec. The influence they desired and obtained was that of Thomas McGreevy, who was both Member of Parliament and harbor commissioner. They should remember that Robt. McGreevy was not a member of the firm in any sense. He had no financial interest and did no work. The 30 per cent he received brought no return in an ordinary business way. This 30 per cent amounted to a very large sum, while Thomas admits having received $85,000 of which he claims to have expended $50,000 for political purposes. His Lordship dealt at length with the manner in which tenders were manipulated and told the jury that it could not have been done without the help of Thomas McGreevy who gave the contractors information obtained from the department. He also wrote them telling them what to do to secure a contract, out of which they made a very large sum of money. They knew where some of that money had gone; $56,000 had been traced from Robert to Thomas; other large sums were also expended in other ways, about which they would hear later. The law on the case was very simple, and did not need explanation, but there was one phase to which he desired to call their attention. Thomas McGreevy held two most important positions, and should have been above reproach. It was absolutely necessary for parity in the administration of public affairs that members of Parliament, representatives of the people, should be free and independent men, not influenced in the slightest by any outside ulterior matters, certainly not by bribes. It was their duty to see that public affairs were properly administered, that public money was properly expended, that public works were not administered for purposes in any way. The moment an M.P. received money from public contractors he left the door of the treasury open that thieves and robbers might pillage. When he forgets the responsibilities of his office, when he breaks his solemn oath, he hands over the public purse to those who dip deep into it for their own benefit, despoiling the country and causing the creation of heavy burdens for taxpayers. If they should find on evidence that Mr. McGreevy had accepted bribes and betrayed his trust it was their duty to see that he and others should learn that the law allows no such thing. He warned the jurors not to heed any language they had heard outside in reference to the case. They must throw aside all political bias. There were no politics in the courts of justice and all they had to consider was the simple facts as presented in evidence. They must decide upon that whether Thomas McGreevy did conspire and commit the overt acts charged. It was no answer to the charge of conspiracy to say that the contract had been properly executed and that the Government had lost nothing. The simple question before them was whether there was or was not a conspiracy to obtain Thomas McGreevy's influence to secure Government contracts. If they found there had been a conspiracy it was their duty to return a true bill. In conclusion, His Lordship said that his attention had been called to the action of some evil disposed persons to influence the minds of the public by articles in reference to this case which had appeared in the press. The Crown counsel had not thought it necessary to have the offenders brought before the court, as might have been. If the articles were written in the interest of parties concerned they were most ill-advised and he threatened that if anything else of the kind took place during the trial he would take steps to preserve the trial of the court.

The grand jury then retired and on returning brought in a true bill.

Rat Portage, Jan. 7.—Hans Fisher, aged 39, was killed about 9 o'clock to day at Keewatin flour mill. He was caught in what is known as the spool, a rope used for pulling cars to the elevator. It is supposed the morning being frosty he had slipped and his arm caught between the rope and shaft, drawing in his body which was whirled around the shaft. The body was badly mangled and death was instantaneous. Deceased had been employed at the same work since Oct. 1890. He was a sober, steady and industrious workman and unmarried. The coroner was notified but no inquest was deemed necessary.

London, Jan. 7.—Right Rev. Dr. Legge, Bishop of Lichfield, died to day.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Snow fell throughout Ontario yesterday, from four to six inches in most localities.

Halifax, Jan. 8.—The big Dartmouth rope works have been purchased by the Montreal Cordage Co.

Toronto, Jan. 8.—Counterfeit ten cent pieces which can be detected by the ring only, are in circulation here.

The many friends of Const. Luke Wilson of the N. W. M. Police will regret to hear of his demise, at the early age of 22. On Saturday last after several weeks of severe illness, he passed over to join the silent majority. He was a young man, highly esteemed, not only by his comrades in the Police force, but also by all who knew him. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon and was largely attended although the day was very cold. Being a Free-Mason he received from that body the last tribute of respect. The body was buried at St. Mary's cemetery after having received from the Police force all the honors of a soldier.

BIRTHS.

The settlers in this place have lately been called upon to convey two of their number to their last resting place. Edward Stevens, second son of Richard Stevens, and a daughter of P. Thorpe have passed away. The surviving relatives have the entire sympathy of all.

We are happy to learn that Mr. John Jackson who has been very ill is again at home.

Sickness has been quite prevalent here this season, and notwithstanding this fact in Christmas and New Year's Day very few deaths were made to enliven the times and they seemed to succeed admirably as well as they who were at either or both of the dances held here, one at John Thomson's and the next at H. G. Young's, as these were both first class, though not many were present.

On account of the almost unprecedented mildness of the winter thus far very few cattle are stabled, but are fed outside and are all in splendid condition. Horses are also seen in large bands evidently thriving well without any care.

Our Stony Creek neighbors expect quite an influx of immigrants to their part during the coming season, principally Dakotas.

They also expect railway communication with the east this summer via the M. & N. W. R. We sincerely hope that such may be the case as the Hills, Carrot River and Stony Creek settlements are at present in a very awkward position as to securing a market for grain, the consequence of which is that only a few thousand bushels are raised annually on a large tract of some of the best farming land in the Northwest.

"August Flower"

I had been troubled five months with Dyspepsia. The doctors told me it was chronic. I had a fullness after eating and a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. I suffered frequently from a Water Brash of clear matter. Sometimes a deadly sickness at the Stomach would overtake me. Then again I would have the terrible pains of Wind Colic. At such times I would try to belch and could not. I was working then for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Cor. Irwin and Western Aves., Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. Finally I used August Flower, and after using just one bottle for two weeks, was entirely relieved of all the trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I would like to refer you to Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked, who knows all about my condition, and from whom I bought the medicine. I live with my wife and family at 59 James St., Allegheny City, Pa.
